ESSENTIALS OF HUMANITARIAN PRACTICE – PREPARING PACIFIC ISLANDERS TO RESPOND TO PACIFIC EMERGENCIES

RedR has contextualised its signature EHP training course for Pacific Islanders with leadership qualities for regional emergency management responses.

In September 2020, a pilot 'Pacific EHP' course was delivered in Fiji by a locally-based training team with support from RedR's Training and Capability team. In line with RedR's localisation strategy and broader sector objectives set out in the Grand Bargain, trained specialists from Pacific Island countries will be ready to support emergency preparedness and response across the Pacific. RedR expects to deliver further courses in the region in 2021 and beyond.

LOCALISATION

In recognition of Pacific Islanders' capability to deliver effective solutions to Pacific Island crises, RedR is progressing the humanitarian localisation agenda in the region by:

- developing an organisation-wide Localisation Strategy and Action Plan
- increasing regional representation on the RedR Roster
- supporting regional inter-operability of deployments
- briefing all deployees on mainstreaming localisation and reinforcing local capacities and leadership
- completing an independent review in 2019 of Australia Assists' contribution to emergency preparedness and disaster risk management in the Pacific, from an exclusively local perspective
- delivering RedR's inaugural EHP training in Suva, tailored to the Pacific context.
