Climate Change

In Vanuatu, Albert is managing construction of schools in areas impacted by Tropical Cyclone Harold. Albert is working with the Vanuatu Government to ensure education facilities are built and maintained to withstand natural hazards. The project will not only enable access to education, it will also help stimulate the economy and improve livelihoods.

COVID-19

In Papua New Guinea, Jack is supporting the national response to the COVID-19 pandemic. In his work as Health Cluster Coordinator with WHO, he has trained 60 health workers in vaccine administration, supported local NGOs assisting remote communities, and implemented health promotion training for health workers.

Disability

In Tonga, Maureen is working to ensure people with disabilities are considered in disaster response. In her role as Disaster Management Officer with NEMO, Maureen provided significant input and feedback during the development of Tonga's Disaster Risk Management Bill to ensure the needs of people with disabilities were included.

Localisation

Simione is drawing on his experience as a Pacific Islander to help Samoa build resilience to disaster risks. Working with the Disaster Management Office and the National Emergency Operation Centre, the Fijian national has developed a disaster risk management toolkit which will be used in a training course for response agencies.

Gender

In Fiji, Kate is working with UNFPA to ensure women have access to sexual and reproductive health services which have been impacted by cyclones, floods and COVID-19. She provided technical assistance to a team of retired midwives deployed to the Ministry of Health and medical services throughout Fiji to support antenatal and postnatal care, family planning and GBV awareness.
